'Chipko' stir in Doon to save trees facing axe for e-way

Dehradun: In a re-enactment of the Chipko movement of the 1970s, hundreds of city residents as well as those from outside, came together on Sunday morning at Sahasrabhairava Road to express strong resentment over the proposed widening of 2,000 metres of the widening of the Mussoorie-Dehra-Delhi-NCR route, a move ostensibly meant to cut travel time for tourists visiting the hill town.

As part of the protest, people, who were drawn from all walks of life and were of all age groups — from 6-year-olds to teenagers, adults and senior citizens — embraced trees and also tied sacred threads (mooli) around tree trunks. Many came holding placards or had put up banners with messages like "What will you show to the tourists? Roadside 'Roadside', 'Cut the greed, not green' and 'No greenery, no voices'."

"Chennai's Chipko movement started on the same date as this. We hope the administration sees it as a sign and gets into action to save the environment from further damage," said Jyoti Prasad Mishra, chairperson of Aangs, one of the 20 non-profit organisations who participated in the protest.

Several youngsters who were present in the protest said that they will continue the fight to protect the trees. "We don't want even a single tree to be cut here. We will continue our protest if our demand goes unheeded," said Nidhi Mishra, president of the state committee of the Students' Federation of India.
